

Workshop on Multiple Discrimination and Violence against Women with Disabilities

Often good projects are implemented to prevent violence against women, but they don't reach women with disabilities, even though they are particularly affected by violence.

For this reason, CBM Christian Blind Mission is offering a workshop for free which takes a closer look into the practical implementation of projects in this field.

This is an additional offer to our joint thematic event with the Federal Commissioner for Matters relating to Persons with Disabilities "Breaking the Silence - Ways to Inclusive Violence Prevention for Women with Disabilities Worldwide" on 25 November 2021 from 14:00 - 15:30 CET (registration: www.breaking-the-silence.eu):

"Practical Steps towards Disability-Inclusive Prevention of Gender-Based Violence".
Thursday, 9 December 2021
from 9 am - 1 pm CET digital via Zoom
(in English)

This workshop is primarily addressed to experts in governmental and civil society development cooperation, activists from national and international women's rights movements, as well as students and other interested persons.

The workshop aims to contribute to a better understanding of the links between gender-based violence and disability and to address discrimination against women with disabilities. Under the guidance of Shivani Gupta, CBM Advisor for Inclusion, and Anbreen Ajaib, Chairperson of the Pakistani women's rights organisation Bedari, you will also work out how to set up and adapt programmes and projects for the prevention of violence in an inclusive way.

Practical examples and approaches serve as further illustration. Among others, the Petze Institute for Violence Prevention from Kiel will present how women with learning difficulties in Germany can be protected from (sexualised) violence and share their experiences.

The number of participants is limited. Please register with this link:
